| Eligibility of costs, types and their caps | Costs that are defined as necessary for the implementation of the project. Project costs can be divided into two main categories: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Direct project costs are costs related to resources set aside specifically for the implementation of the project. Under normal circumstances, this will involve payroll costs for project staff and other direct costs for the performance of project activities.</li> <li>• Indirect project costs are costs related to the use of general resources on which the project will draw. Indirect project costs include the project's share of the cost of rental of office space, IT/telephone and other joint administrative services for personnel, accounting and financial management. Costs for the project's share of joint services that are specific to the type of institution, for instance for research and academic studies administration in the higher education sector, will also be considered as indirect costs.</li> </ul> All Norwegian applicants must follow the Research Council of Norway's general rules for project budgets, as stated at the website of the Research Council of Norway:http://www.forskningsradet.no/en/Project_budgets/1254007196371 |
